What is Probate?

Are we prepared when the worst should happen and a loved one passes away?

What needs to be done first?

How do I deal with complex matters that are unfamiliar to me when I am grieving and can't pull my thoughts together?

What if they didn't leave a Will?

Who can advise me on how to apply for Probate?

What does Probate mean?

Following a death, it can be a confusing time and difficult to know what you need to do first. If the worst should happen and a loved one passes away, you could find yourself having to apply for the legal right to deal with the estate – that is, any property, money and possessions.

You may need to apply for a grant of representation known as Probate in England and Wales. In most cases this responsibility falls to the executors named in a Will. Where there is no Will and the estate is in Intestate then administrators need to be appointed.

THERE ARE TWO CERTAINTIES IN LIFE:
TAX AND DEATH
AND NOW WE DO BOTH!

Probate is required whether or not there is a Will and, due to the possibility of fraud or loss to the estate, the application for probate should start as soon as possible.

Our Probate specialists at JT Accounts can step in to help and to take that burden off you especially if:

- The estate is complicated due to Inheritance Tax or assets which are held in Trust.
- The estate is simple but the administrative burden is too much to deal with.
- The estate is bankrupt.
- The estate includes foreign property or foreign assets.

We have extensive experience with matters relating to applications for probate and the general administration of trusts and estates. In other words, applying for the legal right to deal with any property, money and possessions, and we can guarantee to guide you through this difficult time with sensitivity and efficiency.
